

HARTFORD SEMINARY ANNUAL REPORT 2012

P R E S I D E N T ' S M E S S A G E

Greetings. I welcome you to our 2012 Annual Report.

In many varied ways, Hartford Seminary plays a significant role in today's plural world. In this message, I would like to outline just some of the activities that have taken place in the past year that demonstrate how the Seminary equips individuals and religious institutions to provide leadership that is faithful, contextually sensitive and open to dialogue with other faith traditions.

Having an outstanding faculty is one of our core strengths and I am pleased to report that this year we have appointed two new faculty members.

Najib Awad is Associate Professor of Christian Theology. Najib is a Presbyterian theologian from Syria. The breadth of his scholarship is reflected in his range of publications, from "The Passion Narrative in the Gospel of Matthew: A Historico-Narrative Criticism" to his most recent book, "And Freedom Became a Public Square: Political, Sociological and Religious Overviews on the Arab Christians and the Arabic Spring."

Shanell T. Smith is Assistant Professor of New Testament and Christian Origins. With Shanell's appointment, Hartford Seminary has a special strength in post-colonial studies of the Bible since her work in this field complements the work of Uriah Kim, Associate Professor of Hebrew Bible. In addition, Shanell focuses on womanist and feminist Biblical interpretation. At Drew University, her dissertation topic, "Empire, Gender and Ambivalence: Toward a Postcolonial Womanist Interpretation of the Woman Babylon in the Book of Revelation," won the Rabbi Dr. Sheldon J. Weltman Prize for the Best Dissertation in Biblical Studies. Shanell is ordained clergy in the Presbyterian Church of the United States.

Speaking of Uriah, it gives me great pleasure to inform you that Uriah is now our Academic Dean. Our former Dean, James Nieman, was named President of the Lutheran School of Theology at Chicago last spring. It was difficult to bid farewell to Jim. At the same time, I am pleased, we are all pleased, that Uriah has assumed the position of Academic Dean; he has shown dedication, skill and enthusiasm in the first few months of his tenure.

Our development efforts have led to several major achievements.

Thanks to the generosity of Board member Trudie Prior and her husband Neil Prior, the estate of The Revs. Jane and William Inderstrodt, Lynn and John Fulkerson, and another anonymous member of the Seminary Board of Trustees, we have established an endowed faculty chair in Abrahamic Partnerships. The first holder of the chair will be Yehezkel Landau, Faculty Associate in Interfaith Relations, and the focus will be the history and practice of Jewish, Christian and Muslim Relations.

We also celebrated the completion of a major project to enhance library services. With the H.A. Vance Foundation as primary donor, and including significant donations from the Ahearn Family Foundation and a number of individual supporters, the Seminary was able to add nine mobile shelving units in the library, increasing the accessible collection by 30 percent.

Also, over the summer, we installed a new front courtyard. As part of this project, through the gifts of 16 donors, we installed special pavers in the central square. These pavers commemorate Seminary alumni/ae, family, friends, teachers and mentors.

Another major grant to the Seminary came from the Shinnyo-en Foundation to support a Religious Diversity Leadership Workshop, held in June. The workshop will be an annual gathering of experienced and emerging leaders from diverse religious backgrounds, eager to share their own expertise and to learn new leadership practices. It is directed by Lucinda Mosher, Faculty Associate for Interfaith Studies.

Academically, we entered into an exciting new partnership in 2012 with the Jewish Theological Seminary for JTS students to study at Hartford Seminary to gain a first-hand understanding of Islam and Christianity and to contribute a Jewish presence and perspective so that together the three traditions may work toward creative and constructive relations among them. The Prior Family Foundation, led by Trustee Trudie Prior and her husband Neil Prior, made a generous gift to fund six course enrollments for JTS students here during the 2012-2013 academic year. Three JTS students participated in the Building Abrahamic Partnerships course in June. One of them said afterward, "The experience exceeded my expectations, which now, looking back, seem to have been far short of what I encountered."

The faculty at the Hartford Institute for Religion Research have continued their excellent work in congregational studies, helping faith communities understand the challenges they face and offering ways to strengthen their vitality. In the past year, the Faith Communities Today project issued reports on innovative and contemporary worship styles and the use of social media and Internet technologies. FACT also participated in two major studies of mosques in America. Scott Thumma participated in the U.S. Religious Congregations & Membership Study, collecting data on non-denominational churches.

You may know that Miriam Therese Winter, our long-time faculty member in liturgy, worship and spirituality, is a renowned songwriter. Last winter, we celebrated the release of her new CD, Loving You, which is the first in a series of new recordings of her songs.

A major focus for us is to increase the number of students studying at the Seminary. Tina Demo was hired a year ago as Director of Recruitment and Admissions and has been working with my office and the Communications Office to make us more known to the public and increase the number of people interested in studying at the Seminary.

A final note: I attended a reception in New York City in October to honor our alum Jacky Manuputty, a Master of Arts and International Peacemaking Program graduate from Indonesia. Jacky received the Tanenbaum Center for Interreligious Understanding's Peacemakers in Action award to recognize his peacemaking work. Jacky has helped form Peace Provocateurs to use social media to combat religious conflict between Christians and Muslims in Indonesia. To see Jacky put into practice what he learned in Hartford and to have his work thus recognized is a great pleasure and an indication of the value of the work we do.

I appreciate your support of Hartford Seminary. Please stay in touch with suggestions and feedback on our work. We would love to hear from you.

Thank you,

Honor Roll of Donors

Generous-hearted individuals and organizations from a broad range of faith traditions have helped Hartford Seminary achieve its goal of preparing students to understand and live in today's multi-faith world with its many continuing challenges and opportunities.

This Honor Roll of Donors recognizes those whose gifts have supported current operations and programs (the Annual Fund and other special funds to support faculty salaries and programs).

Following those gifts, we list those organizations and individuals who have given to special funds such as Scholarships to support current and future students, the Endowment to ensure future growth and sustainability, Capital Projects, Specially Designated Gifts and Legacy Giving (The Mackenzie Heritage Society).

The gifts listed below represent donations made between July 1, 2011 and June 30, 2012. The giving levels listed represent total giving by the individual or organization during that time frame, excluding gifts in kind.

Please note: We do our best to list your name correctly, but if you have a correction to make, please call the Institutional Advancement Office at (860) 509-9520 or email swright@hartsem.edu.

CAPITAL PROJECTS

The Power of Partnerships

The H.A. Vance Foundation of Hartford provided a challenge grant of $25,000 to complete the purchase and installation of mobile shelving in Hartford Seminary's Library when the Seminary had successfully raised an additional $50,000 for the project.

The Seminary's Library is at the heart of our institution's mission to increase understanding among students, faculty, religious leaders, journalists, researchers and the general public. The mobile shelving project included the purchase and installation of nine new mobile book carriages to increase the shelving space available for current collections and future acquisitions.

Now complete, the mobile shelving has enabled the seminary to move 21,000 volumes into circulation, expanding the library collection by 30%, a significant increase with benefits to the entire community.

We wish to thank the H.A. Vance Foundation in particular for their visionary support. We would also like to thank all the donors to the project (listed on these pages) and in particular the Ahearn Family Foundation and the Prior Family Foundation.

FOUNDATION HIGHLIGHTS

Foundation Impact

The Alavi Foundation continues to be a generous funding partner, providing faculty salary support for Dr. Mahmoud Ayoub to continue to teach at Hartford Seminary. Dr. Ayoub, a noted scholar of Shi'ite Islam has had a distinguished academic career, at Temple University and Hartford Seminary among many other institutions, and is known for his belief in the importance of interfaith dialogue in today's challenging world as we work to build harmonious and tolerant relationships among all peoples.

The Alavi Foundation has also taken a leadership role in Hartford Seminary's campaign to secure funding to endow a faculty chair for the study of Shi'ite Islam. The Foundation recently provided major funding for a landmark conference last fall on "The State of the Study of Shi'ite Islam in North America and Europe" at which the endowment campaign was launched. The conference brought together leading scholars of Shi'i Islam to share perspectives on their rich heritage within the broader Islamic world and to identify efforts to increase interest in the study of Shi'i Islam in North America. At the conference, Dr. Sayeed Hossein Nasr of George Washington University gave the keynote address.

The Alavi Foundation continues to fund important educational enterprises as a reflection of its mission "to promote charitable and philanthropic causes through educational, religious and cultural programs." The Foundation does this by making contributions to not-for-profit organizations within the United States and Canada that support inter- and intra-faith dialogue, and promote Islamic culture and Persian language, literature and civilization.

LEGACY GIVING: THE MACKENZIE HERITAGE SOCIETY

The Inderstrodt Legacy

The late Jane and Bill Inderstrodt, both Hartford Seminary alumni, made provisions in their estate plans help Hartford Seminary continue its spiritual and educational traditions both now and in the future. Known to many of the Hartford Seminary family, the Inderstrods had long and varied careers in ministry, teaching and church administration ranging from Washington D.C. to positions in Connecticut and Maine. They both continued to be very busy at the end of their lives, even helping to coordinate fundraising for victims of Hurricane Katrina.

The Mackenzie Heritage Society recognizes current and past donors of planned gifts to Hartford Seminary. What began in 1833 with a vision for developing leadership in ministry has evolved today into a renowned center for scholarship, research and dialogue. The vision of the founders of Hartford Seminary has flourished. Their legacy is intact, in many ways because of the generosity and foresight demonstrated by those whose gifts were made as planned gifts to support the future growth of the institution.

To join our Mackenzie Heritage Society, which recognizes current and past donors of planned gifts to Hartford Seminary, you have only include Hartford Seminary in your estate plans.

Hartford Seminary welcomes your inquiries. For more information, please feel free to contact Jonathan Lee, Director of Institutional Advancement at (860) 509-9556, or jlee@hartsem.edu or visit www.hartsem.edu/gifts-lifetime

INTERNATIONAL PEACEMAKING PROGRAM

A Passion for Peacemaking

In addition to their support of the Abrahamic Partnerships Chair, Lynn and John Fulkerson have been leading supporters of the International Peacemaking Program (IPP) in both June of 2011 and October of 2012, inspiring other individuals and institutions to help in funding this unique and effective program. "The Seminary plays such an important role internationally in religious peacemaking," the Fulkersons said.

Lynn is a Hartford Seminary alumna, former President's Council Chair and former Trustee. With her husband, John, she has continued her involvement with and support of Hartford Seminary, and in particular, with this key program, which embodies Hartford Seminary's commitment to interfaith relations. The Fulkersons said, "Hartford Seminary offers a hopeful vision of the possibilities for peace. It brings together people of diverse religious perspectives and experiences in a unique environment of mutual respect and acceptance."

Students enrolled in the International Peacemaking Program include Christians and Muslims who come from overseas settings in which there is interreligious conflict. They spend an intensive year studying interfaith dialogue and leadership, and they leave with the skills and knowledge to become interfaith peacemakers in their own countries.

Hartford Seminary began the International Peacemaking Program (IPP) in 2004. In addition to the Fulkersons' recent gifts, funding for IPP has come from The David E. A. Carson and Sara F. Carson Fund, the E. Rhodes and Leona B. Carpenter Foundation, and a dozen local churches and mosques. It costs approximately $25,000 to fully fund an IPP student.

Why I Give

I support Hartford Seminary with time and treasure because I believe so strongly in its mission. Differences among the faiths through which people approach God are seen too often, almost reflexively so, as sources of conflict, even reasons for hatred. Hartford Seminary adamantly rejects that world view. Rather, it sees in God-created differences among faithful people a great opportunity for learning, one that, if pursued diligently, leads to true self-examination and a deepening of one's own faith. The Greek philosopher Socrates said that the unexamined life is not worth living. More than any other educational institution I can name, Hartford Seminary carries that Socratic principle forward in its intensive study of faithful living in the modern world.

WAYS YOU CAN SUPPORT HARTFORD SEMINARY

Cash, Check or Credit Card

Many gifts are cash contributions that are made by check or credit card. These gifts are tax deductible as allowed by law and provide Hartford Seminary with immediate funding for ongoing operations.

Securities and Property

Gifts of stock, other securities or property benefit the institution and provide the donor with a tax deduction for the fair market value of the gift when it is made. Additionally, in most cases the donor does not have to pay capital gains tax on the appreciated value of the stock or property.

Matching Gifts

Many companies provide their employees with the benefit of increasing their gifts to certain organizations by matching those gifts either dollar for dollar or by a percentage. Please check with your employer about their matching gift program.

Planned Giving

Gifts made through estate planning provide for the future growth of the institution. The Mackenzie Heritage Society honors those who have made provisions for Hartford Seminary in their estate plans.

To make a bequest gift to Hartford Seminary, please use the following wording:

"I give (.....dollars) or (specific asset, such as securities, real estate or other property) or (all) or (...percent of the rest, residue and remainder of my estate) to Hartford Seminary in Hartford, Connecticut, for the sole benefit of the Seminary (for its general purposes) or (for the following purpose:.....)."

Gifts in Kind

Hartford Seminary welcomes gifts in kind including goods and services that meet the programmatic needs of the organization.

Special and Restricted or Designated Gifts

Hartford Seminary has a number of funds that have been established for special purposes and programs to serve the current and future needs of the institution, for example: scholarships, special capital projects and endowed chairs.

Online Giving is available at www.hartsem.edu.

For further information about making a gift, please contact the Institutional Advancement Office at 860-509-9520, or email jlee@hartsem.edu.
