and abroad

P R E S I D E N T ' S M E S S A G E

Greetings. I welcome you to our 2006 Annual Report. As you can see from this issue of Praxis, Hartford Seminary is a special – and active – place.

Our global reach, from Hartford to Singapore and Indonesia, reflects our commitment to preparing peacemakers locally, nationally and abroad. We educate students to lead and to live faithfully in today's multi-faith and pluralistic world. The imperative of dialogue underpins this educational philosophy. Dialogue takes place in our classrooms in an atmosphere of creativity and safety. It takes place outside of classrooms as well, in casual hallway or dinner conversations, for example.

Let me offer two concrete examples of our interfaith efforts. Earlier this year, we received an invitation to participate in the annual conference of the Clinton Global Initiative held in New York City. Announcement of the generous commitment of Trudie and Neil Prior to Hartford Seminary toward an endowed faculty chair in Abrahamic Partnerships was the centerpiece of our participation. We are on our way toward funding this chair, thanks to Trudie and Neil. Building Abrahamic Partnerships, a program directed by Yehezkel Landau, faculty associate in interfaith relations, is an interfaith learning experience that has won critical acclaim from those who have participated in it.

Immediately after the Clinton conference, I traveled with Ibrahim Abu-Rabi', co-director of the Macdonald Center for the Study of Islam and Christian-Muslim Relations, to Singapore. There, we signed a memorandum of understanding with the Islamic Religious Council of Singapore. The council plans to serve as an interfaith training center for Singapore and the surrounding region and we will help provide the training for the council in interfaith dialogue. The council also will send two scholars a year to study at Hartford Seminary and participate in our community.

We know that we also have work to do here in the United States regarding the importance of interreligious understanding as a learning outcome – and the best ways to embed interfaith dialogue into educational programs. The Wabash Center for Teaching and Learning in Theology and Religion has awarded a grant to the Seminary to develop pedagogies for interfaith dialogue. David Roozen, director of the Hartford Institute for Religion Research, and I will direct this project. The goal is to enhance the capacity of seminaries to equip their students to engage in the multi-faith reality of the American and global context in ways that advance mutual understanding. We will develop a book that offers six case studies of seminary-taught degree courses in interfaith dialogue, sponsor a conference for theological educators and disseminate the case studies through publication in print and electronic forms.

I am proud to be president of Hartford Seminary at this time. It is clear to me that more and more people and schools around the world understand the importance of Christian-Muslim dialogue and broader interfaith understanding. Hartford Seminary is privileged to be doing its part in this transformation of thought and of theological education.

May God bless you and may God be with Hartford Seminary.

Hartford Seminary is a special place. Students from East Hartford to West Africa come here to explore issues of faithful living. Here at Hartford Seminary we celebrate difference, deepen faith, and prepare peacemakers to work in a religiously diverse world. Every single donor contributes to this important work.

Through gifts to the Annual Fund, as well as Program Grants, Special Gifts and In-Kind Gifts and Services, each of our donors strengthens the Seminary and helps it to build a stable future. Through the 2006 Annual Report we say “thank you” to our donors who keep the Seminary’s work alive locally and internationally. While offering this heartfelt thanks to all of our donors, we join them in prayer for a more peaceful world.

The following list of contributors reflects gifts to the Annual Fund during the fiscal year July 1, 2005 to June 30, 2006. These gifts are listed according to the giving level. Giving levels are: Leadership Circle ($2,500 or more), Visionary, ($1,000-$2,499), Pacesetter ($500-$999), Investor ($250-$499), Partner ($100-$249), Friend ($50-$99), and Donor ($1-$49).

The Annual Fund supports Hartford Seminary’s Black Ministries Program, El Programa de Ministerios Hispanos, the Women’s Leadership Institute, the Duncan Black Macdonald Center for the Study of Islam and Christian-Muslim Relations, the Hartford Institute for Religion Research, the Center for Faith in Practice, the Library and General Operations. A number of contributions have been matched by employers who are listed separately.

Often donors choose to honor friends and loved ones through Honor Gifts and Memorial Gifts. These are listed accordingly.

Symbols are used in the report to designate an individual’s status between July 1, 2005 and June 30, 2006. These symbols are: Trustee (T), President’s Council (PC), Corporator (C), and deceased donors (D). The graduation year for each alumnus or alumna follows the graduate’s name.
